No Hoops in New York. The Ladies' Union can state positively that no hoops or hoop skirts are neither worn nor shown in New York City, Mrs. Cleveland.

The "first lady in the land," has very properly set her pretty foot square down on the vulgar fashion, and that seems to have settled it. The Ladies' Union has made a tour of all the fashionable houses where fashionable apparel is sold, and not one of them kept hoops nor did they intend to place them on sale.

A few days since the Postmaster received a letter from a lady in Washington City inquiring if "old Dr. Platter" was yet living in this city. The letter was handed to Dr. John P. HERE ARE THE RULES.

HOW APPLICATIONS FOR OFFICE WILL BE CONSIDERED.

Treatment of Incumbents—They Will Be Retained Until Their Commissions Expire—No Journalists Need Apply.

From direct statements by President Cleveland, Postmaster General Russell and other members of the Cabinet, made during the visit to visiting Congressmen, the following code of rules now in force as these rules will govern all appointments to the public service under this Administration.

Incumbents will be retained in office until their commissions expire, unless there is a voluntary resignation. No one will be removed from office until the expiration of his term of appointment.

No one who holds office under the former Cleveland Administration will be again appointed to the same position, except by special election.

No appointments will be made in states having spring session elections until after the close of the election.

Seventh—No exception will be made to rule second in favor of the incumbent, unless removed from office by the last Administration, and the incumbent is a member of the same party, no matter how brief their service may have been.

Rule first does not apply to foreign ministers, to the higher grades of Consuls and to Assistant Secretaries of Legations and Consulates. It is intended, however, to cover that vast class of patronage included in the Postoffice, Internal Revenue and Customs service.

Rule second is designed to prevent the making of appointments under the first Cleveland Administration who are still in positions outside of the classified service.

Rule third is designed to postpone the consideration for office until full attention has been given to the consideration of the incumbent.

Rule fourth is designed to prevent the consideration of candidates who are not to be considered for office until the time of the elections.

Rule sixth is intended to discourage the practice of many Congressmen who have previously held office, and to prevent the responsibility of recommending one of several candidates.

THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT has been so busy since the new act has been passed that Secretary Carlisle has issued an order containing these provisions:

First—The papers of any candidate cannot be seen by another candidate.

Second—No candidate can be seen by his supporters.

Third—The papers of any candidate cannot be seen by his supporters.

Fourth—The papers of any candidate cannot be seen by his supporters.

Fifth—The papers of any candidate cannot be seen by his supporters.

Sixth—The papers of any candidate cannot be seen by his supporters.

Seventh—The papers of any candidate cannot be seen by his supporters.

Eighth—The papers of any candidate cannot be seen by his supporters.

Ninth—The papers of any candidate cannot be seen by his supporters.

Tenth—The papers of any candidate cannot be seen by his supporters.

Eleventh—The papers of any candidate cannot be seen by his supporters.

Twelfth—The papers of any candidate cannot be seen by his supporters.

Thirteenth—The papers of any candidate cannot be seen by his supporters.

Fourteenth—The papers of any candidate cannot be seen by his supporters.

Fifteenth—The papers of any candidate cannot be seen by his supporters.

Sixteenth—The papers of any candidate cannot be seen by his supporters.

Seventeenth—The papers of any candidate cannot be seen by his supporters.

Eighteenth—The papers of any candidate cannot be seen by his supporters.

Nineteenth—The papers of any candidate cannot be seen by his supporters.

RETRIBUTION.

A Son Shoots His Father's Assassin in the Courthouse.

Two Persons Seriously Wounded as the Result of a Feud.

Tragic End of a Quarrel in Tennessee—One of the Most Sensational Shootings in the History of Nashville—Shot by the Son of the Victim.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 14.—One of the most sensational shootings in the history of Nashville occurred here Monday in the courthouse. Thomas Jones, a young man, shot J. J. Winters down as the latter was walking by the side of his wife along the hallway leading from the criminal court-room. As Winters fell his wife dropped upon her knees by his side, crying hysterically, "Tom Jones has killed my husband." Jones fired five shots at the victim. Three of them took effect, and the result will probably be fatal. James Bondurant, who was standing near where the shooting occurred, was struck in the right groin by one of the bullets which wounded Winters, and was dangerously wounded.

J. J. Winters and his brother Andrew had just succeeded, through their attorneys, in having the fees which they are indicted in the criminal court for the assassination of Jones' father, postponed until the next term of court.

J. J. Winters, with his wife, was passing out of the court room, when young Jones followed and shot him down.

The killing of Monday is the last act in a tragedy which was begun June 15 last. On that day the Winters brothers, Andrew and Joe, men of about forty-six and fifty-two years, respectively, made an assault on the younger Jones, and Andrew Winters completely ridged him, and was shot from a double-barreled shotgun. This assault grew out of the fact that the Winters brothers had tried to persuade young Jones to burn the barn of a man named Henderson, against whom they had a grudge. Jones refused to commit the crime, and instead told his father, who was informed Henderson. The Winters brothers, hearing that young Jones had betrayed them, sought vengeance, and several days later caught him away from home and attacked him.

Both brothers were armed with double-barreled shotguns. Andrew fired first, and Jones fell upon his back. Joe then ran up and pointed his gun at the prostrate man, and would have killed him with shot, but his brother prevented him, saying: "Don't shoot a d-d dirty dog when he's down."

For the assault upon his son the elder Jones had the Winters brothers indicted. Both the Jones and Winters families live near the Hermitage, twelve miles from this city. On the night of September 15 last, after the elder Jones returned from court, where he had had the Winters brothers indicted, he was called out of the house and shot down, being instantly killed. The Winters brothers were suspected, and the coroner's inquest laid the murder at their door. The grand jury investigated the case and indicted the Winters brothers, Andrew Winters for doing the killing and Joe Winters for being accessory.

The cases came up in the criminal court Monday. Andrew had been in jail since the killing, but Joe had been out on bond. The court room was packed with people who had come to witness the trial, but in this they were disappointed. The defense made affidavits that important witnesses were absent, and the case was continued. Andrew Winters was taken back to jail by an officer and Joe walked out of the court with his wife. The case was followed by Jones and shot down. Something like a panic ensued, and it is miraculous that no more fatality resulted. Andrew Winters heard the shots, while on the way to jail, and remarked excitedly to an officer: "Tom Jones has killed my brother."

Although the probable killing was one of the boldest and most desperate ever committed here, popular sympathy seems to be with the boy who acted as the avenger of his father's murder, and his own brutal treatment at the hands of the Winters brothers. He was wonderfully calm after the shooting, and made no attempt to flee. After he was arrested he said to the officers: "I have no regret over what I have done, and am willing to bear the consequences. I only wish that I might have killed both of them at the one time."

Winters was taken to the hospital, where he lies between life and death. Bondurant was taken to his home, and is in a critical condition. Young Jones was much distressed when he learned that he shot unintentionally a man who had never wronged him.

The Strike at Ann Arbor.
TOLEDO, O., March 14.—In the matter of the Ann Arbor strike the company undoubtedly has much the best of it. Trains are moving and the blockade of freight is not so extensive as reported. The strikers and Chief Arthur conferred Monday morning as to the best method of compromising with the company. It is not known at this hour what conclusion has been reached.

Railroad Commissioner Kirby is here endeavoring to straighten the matter out.

DRIVEN INSANE

Is a Wife Fit for the Suffering? He files Husband.
CHICAGO, March 14.—A pitiful story lived in connection with the illness of William H. Munderloh, German consul at Montreal, Quebec, who was stricken with paralysis in this city a week ago when on his way to California to visit his family. Mrs. Munderloh was telegraphed for and arrived here two days ago. Her husband's condition was already critical and the doctors informed her that there was absolutely no hope for his recovery. This information had a very depressing effect on the unfortunate woman, and she began to show signs of mental derangement. Saturday she passed into a state of such frenzy that the physicians in attendance found it necessary to remove her from the sick room, and Sunday evening it was found necessary to place her in a private sanitarium. Mr. Munderloh, besides having been consul for the German empire for many years, is vice-president of the board of trade of Montreal.

W. M. RAMSEY
Judge Jackson's Probable Successor as Circuit Judge.

CINCINNATI, March 14.—The attorneys of the southern district of Ohio, since the senate failed to confirm the nomination of Judge Benson Hanchett as the successor to Judge Howell E. Jackson as United States circuit judge for the western division, have agreed the name of William M. Ramsey, of Cincinnati, as a candidate for the position.

It is said a ponderous petition, bearing the names of hundreds of attorneys and leading citizens and democrats, has already been prepared, and will be sent post haste to Washington. Mr. Ramsey is one of the most useful members of the bar in this section, often quoted as an authority legal rulings, and a close student, conservative, yet very popular. He is the senior member of the firm of Ramsey, Maxwell & Ramsey, who do an immense United States court business.

BURGULARS CAPTURED.

Plunder Recovered and the Thieves Locked in Jail.
RIDGEVILLE, Ind., March 14.—On Saturday night the general store of Ad W. Wall at Deerfield, was burglarized, and a close student, conservative, yet very popular. He is the senior member of the firm of Ramsey, Maxwell & Ramsey, who do an immense United States court business.

At Day's Creek house they caught the party, and the stolen goods were found in possession of the tramps. The detective bound the thieves with binder twine, not having enough nippers to go around, and with Wall's assistance, landed the fellows in Winchester jail. Johnson and the same gang had just been released from the Winchester jail on Saturday.

Establishing Annex.
CINCINNATI, March 14.—Henry Charleston, of Philadelphia, who is visiting his brother on Linwood avenue, this city, was shaking this Saturday night in Jerry's saloon at 21 and 23rd street, with Phil Dill. They became involved in a quarrel and Charleston was stabbed in the abdomen. A job was called and the wounded man was removed to the city hospital, where his condition was pronounced serious. Dill was arrested and locked up, waiting to be killed. He admitted the cutting, but said he did it in self-defense. He is an expression.

Barriers to be Tied.
PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 14.—Delegates to the annual convention of the National Association of Barbers, which opened Monday afternoon with George W. Miller, president of the organization, in the chair, have arrived here in fair numbers. The executive committee was in session Monday morning at the Fremont hotel. The delegates will take strong ground against Sunday opening of shops and also in favor of a uniform rate of fifteen cents for shaving.

One colored Man Cuts Another.
CINCINNATI, March 14.—Dave Sautters and Garrett Wheeler, two colored laborers, quarreled in Thursday's restaurant 8 Gilmore landing. Sunday night, while under the influence of liquor, Sautters finally stabbed Wheeler in the chest twice with a dirk, and he made his escape, but was arrested later at his home and locked up on a charge of cutting to kill. Wheeler was taken to the city hospital by patrol 8, where his wounds were pronounced serious.

Another Revolver Accidents.
FORT WAYNE, Ind., March 14.—H. H. Goldwater, a traveling salesman, accidentally shot himself in the side with his gun, Hattie Fishon, Sunday night. He had just cleaned his revolver and was carefully showing its workings to the inmates of the room. It was discharged accidentally and the bullet went through Mr. Fishon's stomach. She lived only half an hour.

Driven to the Hospital.
DANVILLE, Ky., March 14.—Frank Fox, a young business man about thirty years of age, committed suicide Monday morning by shooting himself through the throat with a razor. He is thought to have done the deed while laboring under a temporary fit of insanity caused by a prolonged and miserable illness from dyspepsia. He was unmarried.

Stepped Off a Train.
CINCINNATI, March 14.—Ex-City Treasurer C. A. Miller stepped from the rear platform of a sleeping-car near Bowdoin, O., Saturday night and was badly injured. It is supposed that he fell from the platform while leaning over a bridge, a distance of 15 feet, into the river below, and but for the efforts of Joe Ballis, would have been drowned.
